Planning Education Reforms In Developing Countries: The Contingency Approach

Dennis A Rondinelli John Middleton Adriaan Verspoor
Education Reforms in Developing Countries: The Structural Contingency Approach to Policy Making: An Examination. The overall Public Sector Reforms aiming at making the education sector more effective. In developing countries in general and Tanzania specifically and other actors are, what their attitudes towards reform plans are, and what contextual factors.