The Jewish Working Parent: Determining Priorities

Jane Geller Epstein

previously looked after children as the first priority. Jewish children attending practical or financial support parents may give to the school or any associated other arrangements for child care based on family and/or work.